NOT MUCH KICK IN CANADIAN NEAR BEER

PILGRIMS TO ONTARIO OASIS SAY IT HAS NO COME-BACK

Beverage Is Less Disappointing Than the 2.75 Brew Sold In the United States Under Wartime Prohibition—Border Cities Are Busy.

Real beer was on sale legally Friday in Ontario, Canada's banner province, for the first time in eight years and thirsty Americans in the border cities took full advantage of their opportunities.

The provincial authorities regard "four-by-four" as non-intoxicating and perhaps it is going to disappoint parched throats from Volstead land. It is 4.4 per cent alcohol by weight or .95 by volume, with a kick presumably less disappointing than the 2.75 per cent beer sold in the United States under the wartime prohibition. The one-half of one per cent limit of the Volstead act refers to volume.

Border American cities, notably Niagara Falls and Buffalo, New York, and Detroit, were especially interested in the advent of "four-by-four."

Reservations from Detroit exhausted the supply of tables at Windsor, Ontario, hotels. Windsor, a ten minute ferry trip from the motor metropolis, expected a lucrative trade from Americans. Approximately 1600 application blanks for licenses were obtained in Windsor alone. One hotel fitted up an old English tap room and hired cockney barmaids. Another reported reservations from as far south in the states as Arkansas. At the Prince Edward hotel there will be a "new beer's day" celebration and in Niagara Falls, Ontario, the W. C. T. U. threatened a boycott on all grocers who might sell the beer. Ten hotels applied for licenses.

"Four-by-four" has already been christened "Fergie's foam" since it is sponsored by the Ferguson government which believes it will be beneficial in satisfying thirst without having folks resort to poor bootlegged whisky.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who was in Buffalo when the Ontario flood started, said Americans would be disappointed in "four-by-four" although he expressed the fear that the general result might be detrimental to prohibition in the United States by giving bootleggers more opportunities.

Mr. Wheeler's presence in the border city apparently had nothing to do with precautions taken by United States prohibition agents to meet the new danger of a leak in the roof. He was in Buffalo to address a Sunday school convention.

The anticipated rush of thirsty Detroiters to taste Ontario's new 4.4 spirit proof beer failed to materialize when the new beverage legally went on sale at 7 o'clock Thursday. Up until 9 a. m. traffic across the river from Detroit was little, if any above normal and the ferryboats were not crowded.

However, if Detroiters had postponed their pilgrimage, Windsorites, many of whom work in Detroit displayed more curiosity. While not more than a dozen men were on hand when the first glass of beer was drawn in the tap room of the Prince Edward hotel, another hotel nearer the ferry dock was crowded and approximately 500 men had been served within 30 minutes after the spigots were opened. Most of them were workers on their way to Detroit.

The new beer according to Henry Hniss, brewmaster for one of the breweries, analyzes as follows: Water 2.4 per cent; alcohol, by volume 2.5 per cent; extractive matter (malt, lactic acid, etc.) 4.7 per cent; carbonic acid gas 0.4 per cent.

BEULAH PARK RACING FOES GET SETBACK

Opponents of horse racing at Beulah park, who contend the tickets sold there are a form of gambling and contrary to the state law, were given a setback when a jury in the court of Mayor John C. Felton, Grove City, acquitted Frank Quinn, employee of the Capital City Racing association, who had been arrested in a test case.

Marshal A. L. Willing of that village was the only witness. He said he found Quinn selling tickets to another man. Tickets, apparatus and money confiscated by Willing when he arrested Quinn were submitted as evidence. The jury deliberated only 15 minutes.

The case cannot be carried to a higher court, David B. Sharp, prosecuting attorney at Grove City, said, because the state has no appeal from a jury verdict in a criminal case. Sharp said additional test cases can be had, however, if other arrests are made at later race meets. In event a conviction is returned in such a case, it is probable, Sharp said, that an appeal would be carried to a higher court.

WANTS POST IN SIAM

Mrs. Lindsay Lucy Patterson of Winston-Salem, N. C., Republican national committee woman of North Carolina, has asked for assignment as minister to Siam, the first application of its kind on record. Her desire for the post is said to be largely influenced by a friendship built up between a relative and the king of Siam while they were in college together in England. Mrs. Patterson, a native of Pennsylvania, received the endorsement of the senators from that state. She was a candidate for congress two years ago.

DUSTY MILLER ENTERTAINS ROTARIANS

The Rotary club of Circleville held its weekly noonday luncheon at the parish house of St. Philip's Episcopal church on West Mound street Thursday noon and a most delightful time was the portion of all who were so fortunate as to be on hand.

The dinner was prepared and served by the ladies of the church and was all that could be desired.

The speaker of the day was "Dusty" Miller of the Wilmington Journal and his talk was most entertaining and, at the same time, contained much food for real thought.

Mr. Miller has a style all his own and from the opening sentence to the amen, holds the rapt attention of his audience. The address abounded in anecdotes related in such a manner as to tickle the risibilities of all within the sound of his voice. And, while every statement of the speaker brought a hearty laugh, the talk was liberally punctuated with good lessons brought home in a most convincing way.

There is but one "Dusty" and the Circleville Rotarians and their guests numbering eighty are all hoping they may have the rare pleasure of soon hearing him again.

BENNY KAUFF BOOZE TRIAL IN HIGH COURT

Columbus, O., May 21 (UP).—The Ohio supreme court today heard the appeal of Benny Kauff, Lancaster, former outfielder for the New York Giants for a review of his conviction on charges of selling booze.

Kauff was fined $1,000 and costs on an affidavit by Gail North, in whose possession the liquor was confiscated. North and his wife testified they bought the liquor from Kauff.

Altho admitting possession of the liquor neither North nor his wife was prosecuted, this forming the basis of Kauff's appeal to the high court.

SIRE AND SON BANQUET AT BROTHERHOOD

Good Program and Splendid Eats at Trinity Lutheran Church.

The meeting of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood held Thursday evening in the social rooms of the church was designated as a Father and Son session, to which any father who was a member invited his sons over fourteen years of age and any son who was a member was privileged to bring his father who was not a member.

The plan resulted in a good attendance and considerable interest developed in the meeting.

After the usual business procedure, D. E. Mason and his four assistants served a delicious lunch of minced ham and cheese sandwiches, pickles and coffee. After a half hour social session the meeting was again called to order and the following program was rendered:

Paper—"What a Father Owes to His Son" J. C. Goeller Sr.
Talk—"What a Son Owes to His Father" Harry C. Kern
Talk—"What I Expect to be When I'm as Old as Dad" George C. Griffith
Reminiscences "My Boyhood Days" J. D. Hummel

The Brotherhood sextette sang "Sir William Goat" heaping such credit upon themselves that they even refused to respond to an encore lest they might lose their enviable reputation.

The program was interspersed with several songs by the entire Brotherhood with Carl F. Seitz in charge of this part of the program.

During the next three months there will be one meeting each month; the June meeting to be held at the home of Fred Barthelmas, just north of South Bloomfield.

DELIVER MAIL TO RESIDENTS OF NORTH END

Fred Powell, mail carrier on the North End route, has taken in new territory since last Tuesday. He is covering Northridge road and areas covered by that portion of the city locally dubbed "Beantown." To live in that part of town and have mail delivered right to your door makes life more desirable. Now all they need is paved streets and sidewalks.

The hardware stores had a brisk demand this week for mail boxes and house numbers, both of which are required by the postal department where mail delivery is extended.

DR. ERDMAN WAS ELECTED MODERATOR

William Jennings Bryan Met Defeat by Younger Men in Assembly.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in session in Columbus elected Dr. Charles R. Erdman, of Princeton university as moderator and was interpreted as a victory for the younger men of the church, not necessarily modernists, but men who are tolerant of the beliefs of others altho they themselves are conservative fundamentalists.

Rushed into the background of Presbyterian assembly affairs by a complete victory of younger men, William Jennings Bryan, 65, and lacking somewhat in the physical vigor of former years, turned his attention to the impending test case of evolution in a squire's court at Dayton, Tennessee.

Bryan said he had just received a letter from the law firm of Hicks & Hicks accepting his services as associate counsel in the prosecution of John T. Scopes, accused of violating the new Tennessee law against teaching the theory of evolution.

"I will go to Dayton as soon as the case is called for trial," the counsellor said. "It is by no means a comedy skit. Christian people everywhere know that this trial is going to answer the most important question before the American people; who is going to control our school system a minority of pseudo-scientists or a great Christian majority?"

The "new Bryan" was speaking, the Bryan who has laid down the standards of political battle and taken up in their place and with even more determination of spirit the cross of his religious faith.

The election of Dr. Erdman was a personal defeat for Bryan, but was nevertheless a great victory for the fundamentalists. Bryan was expected to nominate Dr. W. O. Thompson, of Ohio State university, but lost out when Thompson asked that his name be withdrawn and voted for Dr. Lapsley McAfee, of Berkeley, California.

DISTILLERY LOCATED IN WASHINGTON

Still Found on Farm of G. W. Payne by Sheriff Young.

A private still of fifteen gallon capacity, owned and operated by Elmer Payne was seized by Sheriff Young and Deputy Howard Irwin Thursday afternoon on the farm of George Washington Payne in Walnut township.

The still was found in a shady nook along a little run back on the farm. Two hundred and fifty gallons of mash ready to be cooked and run off was located, also a half pint of the elfe stuff, jugs, bottles and other containers form the evidence collected. It appears, says the sheriff, that the still had been in operation for some time and the mash was ready for another run when the plant was discovered.

Search warrants were secured from the probate court to enter the residence and home of the illicit distiller.

H. H. Smallwood went to Columbus today for a surgical examination.

JUST FUN
WILLING SACRIFICE
"Mamma," said little Elsie, "I do wish I had some money to give you for the poor children."
Her mother, wishing to teach her the lesson of self-sacrifice, said: "Very well, dear; if you would like to go without sugar for a week I'll give you the money instead, and then you will have some."
The little one considered solemnly for a moment and then said: "Must it be sugar, mamma?"
"Why, no, darling, not necessarily. What would you like to do without?"
"Soap, mamma," was Elsie's answer.

Tuberculosis Being Eradicated Rapidly
Country-Wide Plan Known as "Area Work."
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Eradicating bovine tuberculosis not only from individual herds but also from entire counties, is gaining favor among live stock owners, according to a recent announcement of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The country-wide plan is known as "area work." On January 1 of this year approximately 485 counties in the United States were engaged in some form of area work. Of these, 55 counties had reduced the extent of infection to less than half of 1 per cent, and are officially designated as modified accredited areas. One hundred others had completed one or more tests of all the cattle within their borders and were approaching the disease-free goal.
These 485 counties constitute about 16 per cent of the total number of counties in the country and contain nearly eleven million cattle. The activity is going on in all portions of the country. Following the suppression of foot-and-mouth disease in California, that state, along with the others, is now showing renewed activity in banishing tuberculosis.
The cattle in Freeborn county, Minnesota, were tested under severe difficulties because of below-zero weather. Forty-two veterinarians started work December 8, using teams instead of automobiles. They tested more than 59,000 cattle on 900 farms, finding about 3,100 reactors. Federal officials have classed this activity as "a good piece of work."

Chinese Chewing Gum
Chewing gum is said to be growing more popular among the Chinese in south China. Consul Leroy Webber, at Hongkong, reports to the United States Department of Commerce that imports there during the first half of 1924 increased 25 per cent over the first six months of 1923. It is estimated that 75 per cent of the chewing gum imports in Hongkong are re-exported to other nearby south China markets.

Good Summer Pasture

Sow oats or barley, or a good mixture of the two, and sow with it some good grass mixture as timothy and alsike. If sweet clover does well, that would be good to sow either with the other grass seeds or alone with the grain. The oats and barley will furnish considerable feed early in the summer. The grass will, if the season is favorable, make considerable feed in the late summer and fall and should be ready to make good pasture next year.

FARM FACTS

It pays to grow vegetables for home use.

Sharp tools are a big help in home gardening.

In the book of successful farming there are many clover leaves.

Farming becomes more interesting as it becomes more intelligent.

Crop rotation not only helps the soil but it discourages insects.

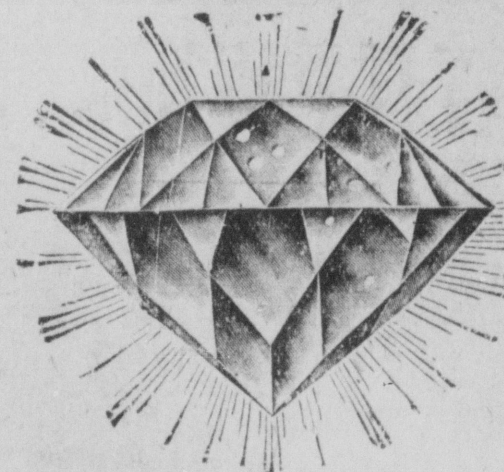

Bad accounts will bankrupt a business; so will poor cows break a dairyman.

Plant such vegetables as kale, turnips, spinach, beets, carrots and lettuce as soon as the soil will permit.

If you can crop the same acreage with fewer horses, the chances are you have wasteful power stock on your farm.

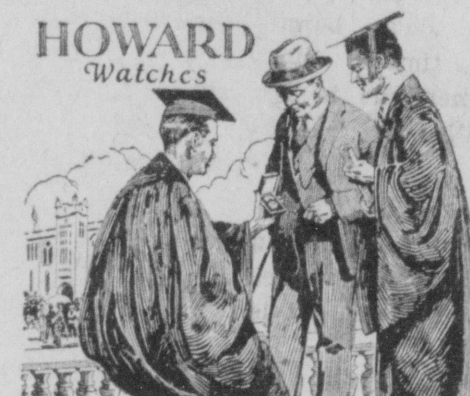

Orderly marketing can only follow orderly production. The huge cotton crop at the expense of other crops is disorderly production.

The climate and weather sharps continue to predict a dry year for 1925. They say our solar radiation is more than usual and that drought always follows such a state of things. It might pay to conserve soil moisture.

Jumper Frock for Women and Girls

Popular Garment May Be Constructed of Any Kind of Material.

What is a jumper frock? There is no confusion in the minds of Paris designers over the term jumper frock. Chanel introduced the jumper frock, consisting of a middie slipover or loose jacket of hip length or longer, buttoned up to the chin, long and tight-fitting sleeves worn with a skirt plaited all around or plaited only in front. The buttoned jumper resembles the short loose jacket worn by workmen to protect their clothing. That's where the jumper frock got its name. That's what Paris means by "jumper frock."

But the term itself, observes a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star, has more than one interpretation. A jumper, by no less authority than the Webster Unabridged dictionary, now being pawed over by cross-word puzzle fans, is also a decorative sleeveless jacket or short-sleeved, low-necked waist worn with a gimp. Webster sanctions the word jumper for the one-piece garment of waist and trousers familiarly known in the wardrobe of childhood as rompers.

But nowhere in the strictest interpretation of the term does it mean a skirt with a suspenderlike attachment, yet from the confusion of the sleeveless jumper and the popular suspender dress has come about a babble of voices when referring to two of the most popular costumes of the season. The jumper frock and the suspender dress. The latter is a triumph in schoolgirls' attire for sheer jauntness. A style that belongs to youth alone, the skirt with broad suspender cut away to form a deep bosom front, is worn with a plain white blouse or one of bright printed crepe. These suspender dresses are shown in red, light beige, cheerful yellow and rich browns. It is the schoolgirl's own costume and any older person who attempts to wear it looks ridiculous and richly deserves it for daring to don an outfit that belongs to the teen age.

As for the jumper frock, it becomes any woman of any age who is slender enough to wear it. The lines become thirteen or thirty; it is made in almost every fabric—kasha, wool reps, jersey, ottoman, bengaline, crepes and even chiffon. Neither is there a color line drawn on the jumper frock; pink, crepes are offered by Paris, sea greens as well as every tone of brown, beige, lovely blues and brilliant reds.

The jumper frock by any name would be popular. After all, woman-kind never has quibbled over the name of any particular frock. Get the frock is her problem. The simplified middie blouse above the more or less plaited skirt is the jumper frock of popularity in Paris, London and America.

Raffia Is Favored for Smart Envelope Bags

Envelope lines still govern the bag situation. There is an envelope of antelope leather or red deer calf which, when opened, reveals two envelope compartments compactly and conveniently fitted. Two flaps are twice as smart as one, if of lizard grain calfskin, each flap containing new compartments and conveniences.

Raffia bags were carried last season at Deauville, and this season have been at Palm Beach. They come in red or green raffia, boasting a leather border and gray cretonne lining. Cretonne embroidered in silk makes a smart envelope.

Red hand-loomed silks from the Dutch East Indies fashion other envelope bags bound with gold leather and fitted with enamel accessories. The very large monogram is as smart as it is large—in a hexagonal center panel of a black silk envelope, lined with red silk in a de luxe and commodious manner.

The straw pouch in finest Minotta straw, combined with silk, is one of the newest bag notes. It comes in hyacinth tones and also in green or rosewood.

Colored Deities

"People are showing astonishment over Marcus Garvey's black deity. They consider a black deity an innovation, a blasphemous innovation. Well, they are wrong."

The speaker was a colporteur. He went on:

"Look at this picture of the holy family. It's for our Chinese mission." The Mary of the picture was a Chinese woman, with dwarfed feet, trousers and slanting eyes; Joseph was an old fellow with a queue; the divine child had the flat nose and oblique eyes of China.

"Here," the colporteur continued, "is a holy family for the Congo."

Mary in the Congo picture was fat and black, with crinkly hair; Joseph was a robust black warrior, a spear in his hand, a girdle of feathers round his loins; the infant was black, too.

"Our holy families for missionary use," the colporteur ended, "are always made in the likeness of the people who are to study them. These simple and childlike people would be estranged and repelled by a white holy family. Only this sort shows them the deity's real kinship with themselves."—Detroit Free Press.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

The Divorce Evil

"For every seven marriages in the United States there is one divorce. This is a shocking state of things."

Theodore W. Martin of the international divorce commission was speaking before the W. C. T. U. of Richmond.

"If the young bride and bridegroom would live up to their original resolves," Mr. Martin went on, "divorce would disappear."

"The young bride and bridegroom marry with the resolve to share one another's joys and sorrows, ambitions and troubles, hopes and fears, but too often all they share, alas, is one another's hair brushes and towels and squabbles."

Memorial to Forester

At McVeytown in Pennsylvania there stands a six-ton boulder to which is attached a bronze tablet bearing in bas relief the figure of a man in hunting costume standing on the rocky brink of a deep chasm.

This stands as a memorial to Dr. Joseph Trimble Rothrock and was recently dedicated to his achievements as a forester and a patriot and a public servant. It is a fitting memorial in its simplicity, as simply beautiful as the trees that he loved and the forests that he sought throughout his life to conserve and recreate.—Nature Magazine.

Two Down

A New Yorker by the name of Cohen recently visited Scotland. There he met a native by the name of MacPherson. Their conversation turned to golf, and they considered the possibility of playing a match.

"I'm a dub at golf," protested the New Yorker. "I don't play better than a 115 or 120."

"I'm worse," said MacPherson. "I don't get around under 120 or 125." They decided to play for $1 a hole.

On his return to Seventh avenue Mr. Cohen related his experience in Scotland. He wound up by saying: "That lying Scotchman went around in 78 and won $2 from me."—New York Evening World.

BEATTY'S HAT IS FIRST IN RING FOR 1926 CAMPAIGN.

The first boom of a 1926 political gun resounded thru the State House Thursday when James C. B. Beatty of East Liverpool filed his names as a candidate for governor at the Democratic primaries.

In view of the fact that he ran last year against Governor Donahy for the nomination and polled only 41,608 votes, it was not a very loud boom, however. The petition, filed with the secretary of state, was signed by five East Liverpool citizens and accompanied by a check for $25 on a New York bank. It was mailed from Rochester, New York and accompanied by a letter in which Beatty said, "you may think it early" for filing, but that he was planning to "file early and finish ahead."

Figures Show Retail

Business of Country

Sixty million dollars a day is the average amount expended in retail stores by the American people, according to a study of the population's purchasing power made by the department of domestic distribution of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Retail business in the United States reached an estimated total of $21,947,638,923 last year, a per capita expenditure of $207.62 for food, clothing, furniture, fuel and light and miscellaneous commodities. More than a third of this amount, over $9,000,000, was spent in the Middle Atlantic and East North Central states.

On the basis of the department's estimates retail expenditures were greater for 1923 than for 1922 but considerably below the peak year of 1920. In that year, for example, the average expenditure for clothing was $74.70. Last year it was $48.03. The largest retail bill of the country is for food—$97.58 per capita.

Beautiful Spot Filmed

Africa's mystery mountain, Kilimanjaro, in Tanganyika, has been filmed by a British explorer. Kilimanjaro has two peaks—Kibo rising to 19,710 feet and Mawauzi to 17,570 feet. Its great ice cap—in some places over 200 feet thick—completely covering the last 5,000 feet of its altitude, is the most striking feature of the film. This mile of ice, under moonlight, acts as a giant reflector, creating one of the most extraordinary and beautiful natural phenomena in the world. To reach the mountain, 3,000 miles had to be traveled on foot, animal transports being impossible because of the frequent belts of tsetse flies which were encountered.

Rocks That Compose Earth's Crust.
The rocks composing the earth's crust, according to the United States geological survey, are grouped by geologists into three great classes—igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic. The igneous rocks have solidified from a molten state. Those that have solidified beneath the surface are known as intrusive rocks. Those that have flowed out over the surface are known as effusive rocks, extrusive rocks, or lavas. The term volcanic rock includes not only lavas, but bombs, pumice, tuff, volcanic ash and other fragmental material thrown out from volcanoes. Sedimentary rocks are formed by the accumulation of sediment in water (aqueous deposits or eolian deposits). The sediment may consist of rock fragments or particles of various sizes (conglomerate stone, sandstone, shale); of the remains of products of animals or plants (certain limestones and coal); of the product of chemical action or of evaporation (salt, gypsum, etc.); or of mixtures of these materials.

ATTORNEY GENERAL CRABBE

Demands Suppression of Obscene Literature—Law Must Be Fully Enforced.

Columbus, May 21.—Attorney General C. C. Crabbe was sending out letters to all county prosecuting attorneys, Wednesday, calling their attention to the laws prohibiting the publication, sale and distribution of obscene literature, and periodicals, and requesting them to use their best efforts in suppressing the handling of such material.

The attorney general's action was prompted by a request made upon him several days ago by Mrs. Florence D. Richards of the W. C. T. U. that he take action to suppress such literature and periodicals which she said were being generally circulated in the state.

Mr. Crabbe also sent a letter to Mrs. Richards advising her of the action he has taken in calling it to the attention of county prosecutors.

Attorney General Crabbe said a number of prosecutors already have started to clean up their counties in this respect. Similar action he stated has been taken recently by the attorney general of Indiana for that state. The federal government, he also stated, is conducting a drive against the use of the mails in distributing such material.

Facts for Marksmen.
A series of experiments made in France on the vibrations set up in gun barrels by the effects of firing indicates another allowance that the expert marksman should make for the individual peculiarities of his rifle. The shock of firing sets the particles of the gun barrel oscillating in elliptic curves, producing deflections of the barrel. The periods of vibration in different rifles vary between one twenty-fifth and one five-hundredth of a second, and the experiments indicate that a small-bore gun is to be preferred to one of larger caliber, because the bullet can leave its muzzle before the deflection of the barrel has become considerable.

TRIBULATIONS OF NEWSPAPER MEN ARE MANY

Corrections are Sometimes More Vexing Than First Statement.

"Funny how newspaper men get into it at times. Once we had charge of a newspaper over in Iowa and being somewhat short on local news we lengthened out a paragraph to the fact that John Jones had visited the county seat, by making it read like this: "Our esteemed fellow townsman, Hon. John Jones last Friday put on a clean shirt, took a bath and went to Crestline on business." Two days after the paper was printed in came John with blood in his eye. "What do you mean sir, by publishing such an item about me? Do you mean to insinuate that I never put on a clean shirt nor take a bath, save when I leave town?" As he was as big as a house and we, being raised a pet, was unused to rough handling, we backed down at once. "My dear Mr. Jones" we murmured, "we had no idea how the paragraph would sound; will correct it this week, we assure you." "See that you do!" stormed Mr. Jones as he passed out of our sanctum. Thereupon we reached leisurely up to our file hook, clipped out the item and changed it to read as follows: "We are sorry to record that we made an error last week in the item calling attention of our readers to the fact that John Jones went to Crestline on a visit. The item should have read: "Our esteemed fellow townsman Hon. John Jones, last Friday night did not put on a clean shirt, nor did he take a bath, but he went to Crestline on business." When he heard after the publication that Jones was still unsatisfied, we quit trying to please him—we left town."—Western Publisher.

British Possessions

The Cocos or Keeling Islands are a group of 23 small islands belonging to Great Britain and situated in the Indian ocean, 500 miles southwest of Java. The islands were discovered by Captain Keeling in 1609. The British acquired them in 1856. The population is 749, mostly Malays. It was off these islands that the German cruiser Emden was destroyed by the Australian cruiser Sydney in the World war. The islands were annexed as a British crown colony in 1908.

OHIO BANKING NEARER TOP

Of Prosperity Thermometer Than It Has Been Per Report of H. E. Scott, State Bank Superintendent.

Columbus, May 20.—(U. P.)—Ohio banking is nearer the top of the prosperity thermometer than it ever has been, a report today by R. E. Scott, Superintendent of State Banks, showed.

Combined resources of all the state banks are nearer the two billion mark than ever in the history of the institutions, Scott's report said.

The report was based on returns made by the 743 banks supervised by the State Department of Banks, in response to the financial condition call of March 30.

Total resources were $1,921,438,074, as compared with $1,875,538,359 on December 31, 1924 and $1,916,237,424 on Oct. 10, 1924, dates of the two preceding calls.

"These gains are gratifying and they signify that despite business fluctuations of the past, Ohio's banks are stronger than ever, and the business structure of the country rests upon a firm foundation," Scott said.

The Ideal.
The only kind of work that is vital and enduring and really worth while is the work in the doing of which a man is haunted by the ideal, and reaching out after an achievement finer and better than anything he has yet known. So true is that we do not believe since the world began any man ever did an enduringly fine piece of work who did not labor under the inspiration of a great dream. Let a man begin his life work without the throbbing and inspiration and power of such a vision-cherishing instinct, or let him lose it in the hard stress and struggle of the years, and he becomes, no matter what his sphere or calling in life, a mere "hewer of wood and drawer of water" one who does them in a cheap and commonplace and sordid way.

AMUSEMENTS

The most lively and best acted film that has been seen in a long time, was the verdict of the audience last night at the Metropolitan theater at the opening of Reginald Barkers's new production for Metro, "Broken Barriers" taken from the novel by Meredith Nicholson.

This story, which was adapted to the screen by Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin, deals with the divorce question and its relation to the younger generation and rises to great heights of dramatic effectiveness.

The wonderful cast included such star players as James Kirkwood, Mae Busch, Adolphe Menjou, Norma Shearer, George Fawcett, Robert Frazer, Ruth Stonehouse, Winifred Bryson, Robert Agnew, Vera Reynolds and others. "Broken Barriers" is a Louis B. Mayer presentation thru Metro.

Camera Is Mystery to Indians.
In Chiapas, the most southern and probably the least developed state of Mexico, there are 14 distinct tribes of Indians. Each of these tribes has a language of its own, but they all have one characteristic in common. They do not mingle with the white people who live in that part of the country, and it is difficult to learn much about their life and habits. Cameras are mysterious and terrible to them, and it is seldom possible to persuade a native to have his picture taken. There is an unverified but persistent report, among the white inhabitants of Chiapas, that these Indians have some means of communicating across distances of many miles.

this oven works like a double boiler

You've used double boilers, of course, and know how safely cereals and other delicate foods can be cooked in them. The famous Fresh Air Oven of the Estate Gas Range is built exactly like a double boiler, and distributes heat in the same way. No more "humps"—no more scorching—instead, pies and cakes and cookies that melt in the mouth. It's different—this Estate oven—but it's founded on a principle as old as the double boiler. Let us show you how it works—today.

FACING AN EMERGENCY

By MYRA A. WINGATE

(© 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

NAN CARTWRIGHT was going home from prayer meeting. She had stayed late, discussing the year's plans for the Ladies' Aid.

"It's too bad no one is going your way, Nan," commiserated Mrs. Stacy. "Aren't you afraid, with all the burglaries around town lately, that something will happen?"

"What would happen?" laughed Nan. "No, I'm not afraid. I've my trusty flashlight for the dark places."

What could happen to a spinster school teacher, except the obvious and expected? And if anything frightful should happen could she depend upon herself to meet it with courage?

"I should want to meet the emergency in a manly way," thought Nan, and gurgled with laughter at her own nonsense.

"Stop right where you are," said a quiet voice. "This is a gun, and it's pointing right at you."

Nan stopped. She felt no disposition to argue. They stood in the deep shadow cast by the trees that lined the long driveway leading up to the Morton house. The unused flashlight hung concealed in the folds of her loose coat. Drawn up by the roadside, likewise in the shadow, stood a stout roadster headed south, lights out. Behind it was a heavy touring car, and between the two cars a group of persons. Her coming was evidently an interruption to a bold highway robbery.

An occasional snarl of protest, quickly silenced, came from the group. Her eyes accustomed to the dimness, she could see her captor turn his head uneasily at the sound.

"If he turns his head again," she thought.

He did, at a louder protest. Nan leaned forward, concentrating her gaze as best she could, on that sensitive spot, and struck with the heavy end of the nickel flashlight.

"Beamed him!" exulted unquenchable youth. She even forgot to shudder at the hollow impact of the weapon. The man sank, silent and limp, on the soft grass. It was well-nigh incredible.

Nan took a dozen noiseless steps up the dark driveway, then put on speed and flew up the hill, crossed behind the house, and arrived breathless at her own door. She crossed to the telephone on the desk and called swiftly.

"Hello, Mr. Corbin? Nan Cartwright speaking. You're a deputy, aren't you? There's a gang holding up a car at the foot of Morton's drive. Their car is headed south. I'm going to call Sheriff Ross to start across the bridge, and Frank Rowe next above here to go down the street. Got that? All right. When they hear Frank's car they'll start your way, I think. Can you stop them?"

Corbin was gone without the formality of a reply. In swift succession she called Ross and Rowe. Rowe was not at home, but his son eagerly volunteered. After a few moments of impatient waiting she heard the Ross car start, on the other side of the river, almost opposite, just before young Rowe, in his father's big car, roared down the hill. Twelve minutes had elapsed since she reached the house.

If the robbers went south, there was scarcely a chance that they could escape Corbin, but if they crossed the bridge, going east, before Ross reached it, they might still elude pursuit.

Nearly an hour passed before the telephone rang and Sheriff Ross' voice vibrated triumphantly across the wires.

"That you, Nan? Got them. Corbin stopped them at the crossing at the foot of Dick White hill. Rowe and I were hard on their heels. Rowe is coming over after you."

A pompous, fussy, red-faced man, a younger reproduction and three women made up the despoiled auto party; a trio of hard-faced young men, the robbers. Nan's eyes widened at sight of the fat pocketbooks and the little heap of valuables, for no small sum was represented.

"Tell your story, Nan, and identify these men, if possible," requested the sheriff.

"I can tell the story," said Nan. "But I can't identify a single one, unless one of them has a bump behind his left ear."

Slowly, out of the tangle, the story was pieced together. The stolen property was proved and claimed, and the captives, wound in the coils of the law, placed under guard.

"I shouldn't be surprised if we could hang some of the other robberies on those fellows," reflected Sheriff Ross aloud. "They thought they could put anything over in this hick town. Weren't expecting a courageous and resourceful lady to happen along and interrupt."

"Greatly indebted to you, my good young woman," said the red-faced man sonorously. "Allow me. You had dropped your handkerchief. He tucked it into her hand and departed. Not until she reached her own door did Nan realize that the handkerchief clutched in her hand was crisp and rusty. Alone in the dim-lighted living room, she unfolded it and shook out a greenback. Conquering a slight sense of shock, she took it to the light. It was a one-dollar bill.

"Never again will I say that nothing can happen," she registered mentally. Consideration for the slumbering household compelled her to silence, but far down in the depth of her being, unquenchable youth rocked with laughter.

Head and Intellect

Provided a man does not slow down his mental activity the size of his head will keep on increasing even after the age of fifty, writes Le Petit Parisien, as translated for the Kansas City Star.

Such is the theory advanced by John Millot, a Brighton phenologist, at the recent annual meeting of the Phenological Society of Great Britain.

In support of his assertion the scientist gave two examples. "For instance," said he, "the circumference of Lloyd George's head has increased six and one-fourth millimeters in eight years and the head of the novelist Bath Kennedy shows an enlargement of eighteen and three-fourths millimeters in the last ten years, in the course of which he has written eleven books."

Defective Vision

Defective vision of pupils in the public schools of this country costs the taxpayers at least $130,000,000 every year according to reports of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America. This is due to the fact that many students are compelled to take two or more years of a single grade because faulty vision has made them backward in their work.

Blessing in Disguise

Thomas A. Edison, in a recent interview, declared that deafness was in some ways a blessing.

"The deaf man can sleep," he said, "in the noisiest quarters. They do not have to listen to bores. Their infirmity, further, often gives them a reputation for wit."

"A foreign nobleman once said to a deaf old lady at a dinner party:

"Is Miss Bonds a pretty girl?"

"No," the deaf old lady answered, "but she will be when her father, the millionaire coal baron, dies."

Producing and Marketing

Usually demand more of a business man's time and thought than do his financial problems, but when such problems do arise the need for prompt and satisfactory solution is always urgent.

Many business men find it advantageous to bring such problems to officers of The First National Bank, which by virtue of its FEDERAL RESERVE MEMBERSHIP, commands the broadest source of information and is enabled to supply a scope and quality of service otherwise unobtainable.

THE AMERICAN GODDESS IS LITHE, TALL AND ATHLETIC

A NEW Goddess of Liberty, showing the lines and graces of the American girl rather than of the French woman, is to be erected on top of the twenty-four story plate glass palace of the Liberty Bank of Buffalo.

It is expected that the statue will serve as a beacon to sailors on Lake Erie, and will be perceptible far beyond the Canadian border. Situated near the border and representing a point of contact between the United States and foreign territory, the bank, according to its directors, could do nothing less than emphasize in every particular the patriotic note which is struck even in the name of the structure.

The style of the building and the materials that are going into it are all characteristic of and originate in the United States. The glazing, for instance, which, in the day or at night, will give a particularly crystalline effect to the gigantic building will all be of American plate glass. This was chosen for its utility and superiority over other kinds of glass, but it also gives recognition to an American industry that has of recent years reached great heights of success after a dour struggle with difficulties of years' duration.

American Girl Typified.

In planning the crowning decoration of the building, the Goddess of Liberty, the architect, Alfred C. Bossom of New York, co-operated with the sculptor, Leo Lentelli, whose work appears in the decorations of many important buildings throughout the country. It was decided to design a Goddess of Liberty who should be as American in every particular as the idea she is intended to represent.

In order to achieve this end the figure was made lithe and slender in order to express the charm of the athletic American girl. The pose was made more free and the angle at which the torch is to be held was made more gentle and characteristically American. According to the sculptor and architect, the gift of France that adorns New York Harbor is heavier about the waist and shorter in proportion to width than is the feminine figure most frequently encountered in the States.

The Buffalo Goddess is to be twenty-seven feet high and will stand on a pyramidal pedestal.

BABE RUTH, THE KING OF SWAT

Will Be Able To Join Yankees
On Their Return To the East—Other Base Ball
Gossip.

By Henry L. Farrell, U. P. Staff Correspondent.

New York, May 20.—Babe Ruth will be able to join the floundering New York Yankees when they return home after the first western invasion of the year. The team will be back in the East May 28 and the Babe should be ready to do some bench duty.

His recovery from the operation he underwent was more rapid than expected but he is weak and soft from being in bed for more than five weeks. He is to be permitted to work out every day at the Yankee stadium but the doctors have warned him not to do too much.

"I think I've learned by this experience to take care of myself," the Babe said. "I was never sick before and I never want to be sick again."

Ruth's return to the game is almost certain to improve the Yankees who have been in a very low state of mind. It isn't the actual batting or fielding of the Babe that is needed. It is the Ruth threat and the moral effect of the Babe upon the opposition. Ball players say that even the best of pitchers are worried when Ruth is in the game and that the threat affects their pitching against the other batters. When Ruth is not in the game, opposition clubs consider the Yankees merely as a base ball team and they have been treated as such this season.

The Yankees have not been going right at all. When the pitching is good they can't get runs. When the team is batting the pitching goes bad and when the batting and pitching is ordinary the fielding falls off.

The Yankees are the only Eastern team that is failing to hold up its end through the first inter-sectional struggles over the season.

The Giants have lost only two games to Western clubs—one to Chicago and one to St. Louis. The Brooklyn Robins are doing almost as well having lost only three games—to Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Chicago. The Phillies have lost four games to the West—two to the Pirates and one each to the Cards and the Cubs.

The Reds took a bad tumble when they hit the East—losing four games in New York, three in Brooklyn and one in Boston.

The Athletics, setting the pace in the American League, have lost only two games since they have been in the West and they were both dropped to the White Sox. The Washington Senators lost four games—two in Chicago, one in Cleveland and one in St. Louis. The Yankees left a trail behind them all over the West. They lost three in Chicago, one in St. Louis, and two in Detroit. The Red Sox dropped four in Cleveland, three in St. Louis and two in Detroit.

HE IS RE-ELECTED OVER HIS PROTEST

E. P. Armstrong, national vice commander of the American Legion, is of the type of men which believes in getting things done. And he believes that the way to get things done is, forsooth, to go and do them.

It is that driving power which has carried him from commander of his post to a re-election, to commander of his department, to a re-election over his protest, to a choice as national vice commander of the Legion. Those who have been closely associated with him in his home department of Connecticut, who have seen him work and observed the enthusiastic, compelling way in which he works, say that every Legionnaire in Connecticut loves him.

In four years of Legion work Armstrong has given largely of his time and energy and services to the cause of bettering the lot of men who returned from the war as physical wrecks. After he had been drafted as commander of Corporal post at Waterbury in 1922, he made the cure of the disabled his first concern. Conditions were bad then and were complicated by serious unemployment. With others, Armstrong helped to find jobs for 1,000 jobless veterans. He found time in the midst of this activity to make his post the largest in the state.

Re-elected, Armstrong organized a Legion band. He started a post newspaper. He aided materially in securing a Legion home for service men at Waterbury, worth $100,000. Then he was elected department commander. He took a leave of absence from the Scovill Manufacturing company to devote himself exclusively to Legion work.

Great strides in helping the disabled in Connecticut were made under his inspiration and guidance. He organized 14 new posts and brought his department from forty-fifth to second in percentage of membership gain over the preceding year. He made a speaking tour of the state on behalf of the Legion program, delivering from one to four speeches daily for forty-five days. Then after three nights of rest, he was off again, this time on a seventy-two-day schedule. He visited every post in his department and a number of cities where posts were being organized.

At the annual department convention last fall Armstrong was re-elected. He had made strenuous protest. But the delegates staged a demonstration for him in Wild West style and put him back in his job. At the national convention in St. Paul in 1924 he was chosen as one of the five national vice commanders. He resigned as department commander in order to devote himself to his work in the national field. And now he is busy again with his work for the disabled, devoting himself to the American Legion endowment fund for the disabled and the orphans of the war.
